

A reflector for a high-pressure gas discharge lamp

Abstract

The invention relates to a reflector for a lamp, in particular with a high-pressure gas discharge luminous body, with an interior and exterior surface.

In order to prevent particles of the reflector from flying outwardly during the explosion of the luminous body, a coating of temperature-resistant tenacious plastic material is provided in accordance with the invention.